FROM THE DESK OF THE EDITOR

I regret that each and every individual associated with the Guilford College community can not be pictured in the 1984 edition of THE QUAKER. I feel that everyone involved with Guilford College serves to better the whole of the institution in whatever capacity he or she may perform. I have chosen to list the names of all administrators and staff picturing those with whom all students at Guilco interact on a regular basis. As a small token of gratitude from the entire student body and in recognition of a job well-done, I dedicate the following poem to the faculty, staff, and administration at Guilford College

IF

If you can keep your head when all about you
Are losing theirs and blaming it on you,
If you can trust yourself when all men doubt you,
But make allowance for their doubting you;
If you can wait and not be tired by waiting,
Or being lied about, don't deal in lies,
Or being hated, don't give way to hating,
And yet don't look too good, nor talk too wise:

If you can dream — and not make dreams your master;
If you can think — and not make thoughts your aim;
If you can meet with Triumph and Disaster
And treat those two imposters just the same;
If you can bear to hear the truth you've spoken
Twisted by knives to make a trap for fools,
Or watch the things you gave your life to, broken,
And stoop and build 'em up with worn-out tools:

If you can make on heap of all you winnings
And risk it on one turn of pitch-and-toss,
And lose, and start again at your beginnings
And never breathe a word about your loss;
If you can force your heart and nerve and sinew
To serve your turn long after they are gone,
And so hold on when there is nothing in you
Except the Will which says to them: "Hold on"

If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue,
Or walk with Kings — nor lose the common touch,
If neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you,
If all men count with you, but none too much;
If you can fill the unforgiving minute
With sixty seconds' worth of distance run,
Yours is the Earth and everything that's in it,
And — which is more — you'll be a Man, my son.

Rudyard Kipling

Emerson

My love is like grasses hidden in the deep mountain: though its abundance increases, there is none that knows.

The present is the living sum total of the whole past.
Carlyle

Remember this also, and be well persuaded of its truth:
the future is not in the hands of fate, but in ours.
Jules Jusserand

What lies behind us

George Eliot

You can dream but you can never go back the way you came.
Jackson Browne

To accomplish great things we must not only act, but also dream, not only plan, but also believe.

A. France

Holdfast to dreams, for if dreams die, life is a broken winged bird that cannot fly.

L. Hughes

We do not come to believe in ourselves
until someone reveals that deep inside us something is valuable worth listening to worthy of our trust
sacred to our touch.

Edwin M. McMahon

I see much, I say little, and do less.

Life is short and we have
Not too much time gladdening
The hearts of those who are
Traveling the dark way with us
Oh be swift to love,
Make haste to be kind.

Henri Amiel

"Every man has his Bethlehem where new possibilities and hopes are born,
Where his history is invaded by novelty and the potency for new action.
At such times, the tyranny of the past and the terror of the future give way before a new time of open possibility — the vibrant present."

In Memoriam Of
Charlotte Degroot
Born — February 17, 1963
Died — August 25, 1983

We do not cry when we think of people we love; we smile. We smile because knowing them makes us a part of something that can be "felt" but cannot be "seen" or "touched", yet we know it to have more value than any possession we could ever own. Charlotte gave us a ready smile and encouragement for tomorrow. When we think of her, we think of all she gave and all that we have to remember and love and cherish. Each of Charlotte's friends must deal with their loss in an individual way. My counsel to those who knew her is taken from reflection upon the Charlotte that I knew. "Have the wisdom to love, to live, to take what fate the gods may give. Hold your face to the sun and be inspired by her warmth."

In Memorium
To
Jerome James "Jim" Fingeroff

Life is a series of unexpected circumstances. Each of us must at one time or another fall victim to its ploy and act upon the cards which are dealt to us. Often we must play our hand in the shadow of another's misfortune. The game is one having little pity on its players. It is designed to offer each of us alternatives, but in the end, we make our own decisions. The participants decide for themselves whether or not they shall benefit from the fates of others. The loss of a fellow player must be felt and grief must be dealt with but, in respect to those fallen, we must not allow ourselves to martyr such a loss.

THE STAFF OF THE QUAKER '84

Eric Locklear, Editor

Daryl Law

Roy Stottler

Todd Reitzel

I have thought a great deal about what concluding comments to make in this edition of THE QUAKER. First, in the capacity of editor of THE 1984 QUAKER, I should like to speak to those circumstances which precipitated my diverting from the tradition of the Guilford College yearbook being issued in the fall upon completion of the preceding year.

For reasons unknown to me in entirety, the QUAKER preceding the 1984 edition failed to reach the hands of the students at Guilford College during the course of the 1983 year and at the time at which I am writing this piece, the book remains in limbo. A yearbook is an object of importance to those whose memories are recorded in its pages and, like a fine burgundy, its value increases with age. Its significance must not be allowed to decline as it is a source of morale and an uplifting force to the spirits of those whom it serves. My staff and I recognized that the plight of the issue preceding ours might prove detrimental to the student-body morale and thus blemish all future editions of THE QUAKER including the 1984 edition. We felt that under the precarious and extraordinary circumstances surrounding the publishing of THE 1983 QUAKER, the 1984 edition and the student body might best be served by issuing the book during the course of the same year — thus necessitating a spring delivery date and a February completion date. All activities occuring in the spring of 1984 which have not been covered in this portion of THE QUAKER will be covered in a supplement to the book which will be given to the student body (or shipped to the graduating seniors) in the fall of 1984. The supplement will fit into the original book and become a permanent fixture of the publication. My staff and I have worked diligently in obtaining this goal and in some cases, because of the short time-span involved in our production of the book, style and format have been altered in our endeavors to serve our fellow students. We trust though that this will enhance the uniqueness of THE 1984 QUAKER.

On another note, as a student/observer on the Guilco campus and as a connoisseur of the liberal arts principals upon which this institution is forged, I would like to comment on the "1984 Syndrome" originating with George Orwell. Orwell's futuristic narrative is not so much a prophesizing of "Big Brother" but rather a negative statement suggesting that mankind's individualism will degenerate to a prototype organism and a society will evolve in which this archetype is robotized. In the shadow of the micro-chip and the apparent dependancy upon it to solve all crises, the reality of such a concept is not beyond the sphere of plausibility.

As a optimist and a humanist, I believe that we, the students of the liberal arts, are inclined to pride ourselves on the ability to arrive at independent conclusions drawn from a wide area of resources such as the sciences, the arts, etc. This quality, indigenous to our genre, preserves individuality in the face of the frightening flux of apathy which has come to dominate our society. Oddly enough, this compulsion to conform seems to stem from the youth of today whose unwillingness to utilize the innate freedom of youth (to experience and explore "new" prospects) is a moral and intellectual betrayal of one of its most treasured bastions.

I remain firm in the conviction that we, as upholders of the liberal arts will, even as a minority of the populus, continue to "upset" the seas of apathy which engulf our civilization and thus forever postpone the threat of Orwell's "1984". My assurance of this lies in the character of the Class of 1984 to whom I wish the best of success and the richest of futures. Thank you for allowing me to have served you.

Eric Locklear
